Families living in the area of Patras, in the Central Greece region, will be pleased to learn that they now have access to an instant family sharing system, thanks to the initiative of Living with Patras (SAFMA), SPAUN, and the Municipality of Patras. For the first time ever, a user will be able to see a specific list of relatives and their profiles, their gender, marital status, in this way, he or she will be able to find out more about the person and the family unit they belong to. Based on the family tree registry, that has been developed on top of the Live family tree, users will be able to access the information for the person they wish to share with, in a quick and hassle-free way, even if they may be on vacation or away for long periods of time. The system will also be beneficial to people who wish to share their projects or posts, as they will now be able to directly send their family members an invitation, in order to invite them into their respective family sharing project. This will enable people who are often away from home to browse at their own pace, a feature that will become increasingly important, as more people are staying away from their homes to work, study or even travel. Overall, a significant benefit offered by this system is that all the features have been developed on a single database, allowing the users to take advantage of only one login and password, no matter where they are. This database will be able to be shared among different instant messengers, including WhatsApp, Messenger, Gab, Telegram, and so on. Thanks to the system's development, the user will be able to see the information he or she would like to share with the person he or she is sharing with, in a quick and easy way. A significant feature of the development is that it offers people the opportunity to add their personal picture to the profile section of their family members. This means that users will be able to upload and share their own pictures with those they wish to share their information with.
