Miranda Thompson, six, 'still retains the ability of a child' despite having a severely disabling brain injury. Miranda was born with a rare condition called microcephaly which can lead to massive cognitive impairment and even death. A simple, daily act of bringing the toddler to the toilet could result in injury that could affect her as she grows up. The three-year-old has reached a stage where she requires assistance with all of her daily activities. "She can't go to the toilet at the moment, but that's about it really," Miranda's mother Karen says. "She's only sitting down for short periods of time." Karen Thompson and Karen Nelson, far left, are told by Mrs Oldfield, the team manager, to be prepared for "closure".

A six-year-old child, who was born with a rare condition called microcephaly, is now at a stage where she requires the assistance of others to brush her teeth, wash her hands, take her to the toilet and comb her hair. The child's parents said the cost of day-to-day care for her now top $10,000 a year. Karen Thompson said she was frustrated that the family was told that the child had reached a stage where her disabilities would not improve. A alternative to Winamp (Winamp Alternative) does not mean that it is a clone of Winamp. No one has ever accused a good product of being a clone of another. Instead, it is the developer of the program who claims that the new product is just a clone of the original, when in reality it is a very different product. Another less critical difference is that Winamp is free software whereas Winamp alternative is not. This means that Winamp alternative is not open source software and can only be used under very restrictive conditions. If you like Winamp, you can still download and install Winamp at no cost. Q: PHP Session keeps storing old data Basically, my problem is that I have 2 names, which are stored in a session, that are constant, but always change. I use session_id($username) to store the username in the session, and when I refresh the page it keeps storing it as the old value. Anyone know how to fix this? I've been working on it for a few hours now, so I might be missing something, which could make this much simpler. I don't understand why it's storing the old value, so I can't really understand how to fix it.
