As previously confirmed during its press conference at E3, The Tactical Power of the Two Teams Three play modes will be returning from FIFA 18: • New Manage Mode allows the player to lead a team of real players and take them through the game's creation and progression stages. • FIFA Ultimate Team expands the award-winning franchise mode by giving the player more control over the unique football squad he or she has built. The player is free to set preferred formation, playstyle and squad positions. • New 10v10 Free-Kick mode returns to create a unique FIFA experience, where players can call, pass and shoot in real time. New gameplay features include: • Players can now make accurate, penalty-saving runs to retain possession in tight situations. • Dynamic ball physics – Using the power of physics, FIFA games have always been a thrill to play. While retaining the speed and excitement of a football game, we've introduced a new physicality and weight to the ball, allowing for more realistic and immersive ball movement in the air. • New Fluid Grass – New, dynamic grass simulation, which reacts in real-time to the weather conditions, meaning rain affects the pitch in a meaningful way. • Dynamic Player Creation and Retention – New mechanics allow players to create and retain their own unique player, and change it, during gameplay. This will allow players to express themselves through the player they create. • New Fatigue System – Players can now accumulate fatigue over the course of a match as they receive more touches and make more key decisions. • New Quick Play option allows the player to choose from FIFA Ultimate Team mode and single-player game modes for quick and easy gameplay. • All new Pitch Design – The new pitch also features dynamic interactions where players impact the ball directly, and play features that take place on the pitch. • All-new Match Day Live - A fully-interactive clock that is brought to life using the "Universal Language" of football. • New Jump System – Jumping levels have been enhanced by using a new accurate physics model, allowing for more "on-pitch" movement and action. • All-new Close Control System – The ball has been treated as a huge physical object, with the ability to be directly "cut off" by the player. • Pro-Style Long Shots - Players
