Employees of the rig were later evacuated on 26th of September 2010. The incident has caused major damage to the rig and its crew. Due to the explosion, two of the rig's wells were lost, causing disruptions in the oil supply. The rig owner was cited by the U.S. government for several safety violations. The explosive had not been tested before the test. Ocean Exploration Rig Explosion The explosion has caused a lot of damage to the rig. Oil spillage and major damage to the rig's well has caused massive damage to the environment. One of the wells located approximately 57 meters away from the explosion experienced the loss of a power surge. Oil and hazardous spills have flooded the sea. Preliminary report has revealed that the explosion was caused by a sudden release of natural gas. Such type of explosion has been witnessed only three times in the history of the modern oil industry. However, due to its unprecedented magnitude and the presence of large quantities of the gas in the well, as well as the number of people involved, it is feared that this time there will be higher levels of pollution. A blast above the rig blew a large portion of the building off its foundations. Some parts of the rig have been carried away by the strong waves. There were three workers on the rig. Some of the workers were close to the blast. One of them is in critical condition. The blast has also created a large oil slick that has flooded the sea. Large scale leakages have been reported with oils being leaked c9d1549cdd

Licensed under Creative Commons: By Attribution 3.0 How to change my enemy loop to make it more random, like gravity? I'm trying to figure out how to change my enemy's state and restart gravity to give a better constant speed of falling. What I want to do is to make my enemy fall for 8 times as fast with only gravity, then 1 time at normal speed, and finally 8 times slower than normal with only gravity. The problem is that the enemy is falling too fast, 1 time too fast (so that's the gravity for a few hits then normal gravity starts) and a few hits it is falling forever. I tried to add a random chance with a 1/8 chance to make it pause, but it seems not to help. Is there a better way? My Enemy class is: public class Enemy : MonoBehaviour { // Use this for initialization void Start () { ResetEnemy (); } void FixedUpdate () { // The enemy's movement
